The Diversity Programs Office supports K-State's Minorities in Agriculture, Natural Resources, and Related Sciences (MANRRS) chapter, a student group that provides a local, regional, and national network for students enrolled in agriculture, natural resources, related sciences, and other interdisciplinary subjects. In addition, the Diversity Programs Office collaborates with the K-State Office of Diversity to promote cultural sensitivity in the academic arena.

Whether you are a student considering the College of Agriculture or an employer wanting to support our efforts, we are here to help you. For more information please contact us using one of the methods listed below.
