COA Reinstatement Procedures

Dismissed students will be readmitted to enroll in the College of Agriculture only when approved for readmission by the college's Academic Standards Committee. Dismissed students are advised to see their academic advisor before completing the Petition for Reinstatement.

Normally, a student must wait at least two semesters before being considered for reinstatement. Being reinstated in the semester following dismissal is the exception rather than the rule. If you choose to petition for reinstatement in this circumstance, be prepared to show both your advisor and the Academic Standards Committee unusual or extraordinary reasons why an exception should be made in your case.

Applicants planning to petition for reinstatement in the College of Agriculture must complete and return the petition to Waters Hall, Room 119. The Academic Standards Committee generally meets shortly before the first day of class for the fall, spring, and summer terms. Additional midterm meetings are scheduled during the fall and summer terms.

When your completed petition is received by the College of Agriculture, you will be given a 15-minute appointment with the college's Academic Standards Committee. The committee will have reviewed your petition and records prior to your conference. They will be interested in reasons why you desire a college education, factors which led to your dismissal, and changes you have or will make to ensure your future academic success. Based upon your responses, the committee will then determine your student status. You will be notified of the committee's decision during your appointment.
